

CORNER FOR THE JUNIORS

THE SQUAW BOY.

He Killed the Evil Wolf and Became the Hero of the Village.

Although he was the most skilled in shooting the bow and arrow and the fleetest of foot in the Ojibway village, the Squaw-Boy was the most hated. Every boy jeered at him because he was afraid of the dark. When shadows were beginning to steal over the sky, the Squaw-Boy was always in the wigwam.

He soon found life so miserable in the village that every day, to get away from the jeering taunts of the Indian boys, he went into the forest to his hiding place. It was in a little grove of trees, with a small stream running through, and on the banks of this stream was a cave just big enough for him to sit upright in. There he would tell his troubles to the trees and the stream, his only friends. He asked them how he could win a better name for himself and they all seemed to whisper back in a chorus: "Kill the Evil Wolf."

So he plucked up courage and made up his mind to start out and hunt for the beast the next day.

The "Evil Wolf" was a large gray wolf known from others because of its having only one ear. Its name originated in the Ojibways claiming that it brought bad luck to them. When they were out on the war-path they came home empty-handed, with many of their braves killed, so they blamed their misfortunes on the Evil Wolf.

Many braves had gone out in parties to hunt for the brute, but none of them had any better success than to merely see it.

The Squaw-Boy spent the rest of the day sharpening his hunting knife and making more arrows. When he had finished the sun was beginning to set, so he started to go back to the village. Instead of going the way he usually went, he walked along the bank of the stream. He did not go far before he came to an opening, and here he saw the Evil Wolf playing with a litter of wolves. At first he was so frightened he ran, but he soon plucked up his courage and came back. He then aimed an arrow at the mother wolf, which had not seen him all this time. "Twang" went the bow, as the arrow struck through the heart of the Evil Wolf. The frightened little wolves whined around their mother, not knowing what had happened. The Squaw-Boy then shot the baby wolves and dragged the Evil Wolf into the village.

There was much rejoicing in the tepees that night and the Squaw-Boy was the hero. First the Indians had a big feast, then they had a meeting at which they changed the brave Indian boy's name to "Wolf Killer." After the killing of the Evil Wolf the luck of the Ojibways changed to good and Wolf Killer was made chief years after.—Charles Smart (aged 14), in Detroit Free Press.

Drowned Willie.

Mr. and Mrs. Green and their little boy Willie were returning from a visit to a neighbor.

They came to a stream and found that the bridge had been swept away by a heavy rain which had fallen since they passed that way before.

To go up to the next bridge meant a walk of five miles, so they decided to wade the stream. Mr. Green clasped his wife's hand, and Mrs. Green took firm hold of Willie.

They had reached the middle of the stream, where the water was up to Mr. Green's armpits. Just then he glanced where little Willie should have been, but all he saw was a few bubbles.

"Where's Willie?" he exclaimed.

"Oh! he's all right," calmly replied Mrs. Green. "I've got him tight by the hand."

For Cigar Smokers.

When you smoke a cigar you want a good one. A poor cigar is a rank abomination and a stench in your own nostrils and in those of your friends within smelling distance.

The trouble with most of us is to find a cigar with rich, satisfying aroma and easy drawing qualities without paying an exorbitant price for it. It remained for Frank P. Lewis of Peoria, Ill., to solve the problem for us. His Lewis' Single Binder 5c cigar is without doubt the peer of any brand of 10c cigars on the market. The Lewis' Single Binder cigar is wrapped in tinfoil and reaches the smoker as fresh as when leaving the factory. Its smooth, rich, satisfying smoking qualities are a delight both to the palate and the nostrils of cigar connoisseurs everywhere. In spite of the fact that the Lewis factory employ no traveling men the sales this year will exceed 9,000,000, the demand being created solely on the high quality of the tobacco used.

BLACK, ITCHING SPOTS ON FACE.

Physician Called It Eczema in Worst Form—Patient Despaired of Cure—Cuticura Remedies Cured Her.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of —. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in the worst form. Their treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. My husband purchased a single set of the Cuticura Remedies, which entirely stopped the breaking out. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that ever splotch was entirely gone. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago. Mrs. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala., Oct. 28, 1905."

HORSES THAT WOULDN'T DROWN

Remarkable Deeds Recorded by Two Veracious Chroniclers.

An Albanian who has just returned from the east, where freshets have been the rule, tells the following about a horse which had been attached to a foot bridge crossing a brook, to keep the structure from going adrift. The flood finally swept horse and bridge down stream. Later, the bridge was discovered lodged against the bank, with the horse sitting quietly on the former.

A bystander who had listened intently to this tale, remarked quietly: "I see suthin', similiar onces."

"Indeed? What was it?" asked the story teller.

"Ye see," was the reply, "arter the hoss I see was took down stream, no-buddy ever 'spected to see him alive agin. But he was a pow'ful sort o' brute, an' 'bout a hour arterward we see him a comin' up a stream a-pullin' the blame ole bridge arter him!"—Albany Evening Journal.

Highball?

Yeast—"Did you ever exercise with a medicine ball?" Crimsonbeak—"Well, I've taken something for snake bites, if that's what you mean."
